

11 December 2017

To Whom It May Concern,

My name is Ray Boyington and I live in New Hampshire. I'm registering a complaint about the propose repeat of net neutrality, considering the fact that in order to read this complaint, you would probably have to pay YOUR ISP an additional $2 to view this "premium" content.

Not all of us have $2 to view "premium" content on demand. Not all of us have additional funds to pay Internet Service Providers like Verizon, Metrocast, Comcast, Cox Communications... any of them can increase their prices to effectively-govern the World Wide Web.

It will effectively put up an inevitable paywall to access any content.

As much as it is their right to do so, ISPs would be allowed to impede any individual and business with increased prices and rationed connectivity to resources. This includes entertainment, professional services... even doing research. With the increased overhead for businesses, it has the potential to impact operations, which lead to other financial decisions based on this sort of forced compliance. Smaller businesses will be impacted worse than larger companies and conglomerates, and the level of technology that is ubiquitous with individuals... well, imagine if your cell phone bill increased by $20/mo worth of more "fees" to access certain sites from your smartphone.

With this letter, I'd like to officially voice my complaint on 17-108, known as the proceeding to "Restoring Internet Freedom." Disassembling this sort of neutrality seems very much a conflict of interest to the American people. And as we know, the U.S. government is one for the people.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Ray B.', with a long horizontal line extending to the right.

Raymond Boyington
A fellow Internet user

P.S. If you'd like, reply to ray.boyington@gmail.com for no additional fee... while you still can. =)